Ulla Wobst.

Born in Gelsenkirchen -Buer. First I studied German and English Philology, the study of language in written historical sources for six years. After three further years of more practically oriented studies I became a teacher and shortly afterwards was promoted to one of the six headmasters at a German College with 1500 pupils. I was responsible for the Languages and Art Departments and also taught German, English and Drama. In parallel I privately studied Art History and Fine Art in a process of self-discovery in which I discovered my passion for painting. Since 2001 I have worked as an independent painter in my Dortmund atelier.

My main interest is MAN , his relation to his fellow-men, to his own self, to God, the Universe , the Numen, to Life and Death...

I want to show his manifold facets, his joy of life, his fears and wishes, his dreams, his sorrows and his reflectiveness. For this purpose I make use of an archive of literary relations, dream projections and memories and also employ abstract, symbolic and surreal elements to transport a special message.
