Franco Policastro was born in Salerno (Italy) in 1957. Policastro begins his art studies at the Liceo Artístico in Éboly and achieves his superior degree at the Faculty of Art in Florence. Once in possession of it, he worked as a restaurateur at the Soprintendenza di Belle Arti di Pisa. After completing his studies, Francesco traveled around Europe. He currently lives in El Puerto de Santa María (Spain). Francesco Policastro is a very original Italian painter whose original works can be found in many private collections in the United States and Europe. As Francesco says. "In my conscious search for expression, I came to the conclusion that the image lacks a clear environment and must be extended to a space without boundaries. The demarcation of space should not end where the view ends. The boundary of my work is exhausted, but it is precisely where the work of art becomes its own and begins the subjective suggestion of the spectator / audience. This intellectual reflection works to break with the past, which I define as RUTTURALISM".
