Sussie Pultz. Born in 1962.

Autodidact artist from Denmark.
I grew up in a family with practicing artist on both my mother and fathers side – and I have always been excited about drawing.

I graduated from tailor school in 1997, and through that I learned how to draw and paint many fashion drawings in watercolor.

In 2006 I started to paint with acrylic on canvas – I have experimented a lot in different genres and materials.

I love bright colors and contrasts.
To describe my art, I would use the words, colouristic, expressive and intuitive.

I am very spontaneous when I paint and often forget time and place.

I let the energy and flow take me wherever it wants.

I have further developed my abstract paintings with different techniques, among other using an overhead projector and adding iconic figures to make, what is described as “Pop-art”.

I am very spiritual by nature and I am drawn to mystery, magic and adventure, which can often be seen in some of my paintings, which are inspired by Indian religions and tales of mystery. I therefore often work in several themes at a time.

In my paintings, I use acrylic, spray colors, chalk and sometimes pieces of old posters and similar materials, as well as modeling paste.
